

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A return fuel temperature control module is adapted for use in controlling the temperature of fuel diverted away from an engine and returned to a fuel tank. The module includes a housing formed to include passageways and a flow 5 controller to control flow of fuel through the passageways.